You're welcome. This wasn't quite as bad as the email I had to send Katy Graves earlier this week over $0.005/hour of OT, for as much as 9/10ths of one penny difference per pay period. Total that they could possibly lose in that scenario, if our system only always rounded down, was going to be 23.4 CENTS per YEAR. I wish I had the kind of time to send an email because I felt like someone was taking $0.24 from me per year.

Just so we're clear – Judy picked one of the higher plans. And her net check:

On 9/3/20 - $1,122.25

On 10/15/20 - $1,120.83

I would call that pretty much covered. $1.42 every two weeks?

Others on that same plan still had a small net check gain, even if they were also in the $600 tier. Perhaps she's not using the pretax option, not sure. But anyway, it's pretty close to covered.
